Q: Is it possible to optimize the gridlayout? Currently I'm using the GridLayout (android.support.v7.widget.GridLayout) and I have the following sample screen: You can see there are some bugs with the top of the screen. It was asked to me to add a 9-patch png to fix it. But I don't want to use the 9-patch png. Is there any way I can optimize the 9-patch png with only four corners? A: Adding a 9-patch for the top is the only way to fix the top part of the screen. You can of course make this 9-patch smaller if you want. A better way would be to have a higher-resolution view with the correct border dimensions. Q: Making a custom control in Winforms I'm trying to create a simple Windows Forms control that will contain a checkbox and some text. The code for the control is this: Public Class CustomControl Inherits Control Private _checkBox As New CheckBox() Public Sub New() _checkBox = New CheckBox() End Sub Public Property IsChecked() As Boolean Get Return _checkBox.Checked End Get Set(ByVal value As Boolean)

An acronym is a shortened form of a word or phrase that is used in a specialized field of study. This definition is given in the Wikipedia article: Acronyms are used when there is a desire to shorten or otherwise abbreviate a word or phrase. How do you play a video game? You have to know the name of the game. Then you have to find the name of the game on the internet. Then you have to type the word in Google. Finally you have to find the name of the game in the first video on YouTube. This is a lot of work! In this lesson you will learn how to find acronyms and abbreviations on YouTube by simply typing in the search bar whatever you see in the video. You will learn how to use this process on any video you find on YouTube. I have created this lesson because there are so many games that have an acronym at the beginning of the name. Sometimes the acronyms can be tricky to figure out and you may have to watch a lot of different videos before you find the acronym. The acronym at the beginning of a name can give the video game a lot of exposure and you can be the person who finds that acronym for your friend or on the internet for the next person. If you find the acronym you can make it the name of a new game for the next person or you can send the acronym to your friend. When you find this acronym or name of a video game it gives you something to do. The acronym can be posted on social media sites and there is a link at the bottom of this lesson. You can send an email to the video game companies and you can even send an email to the creator of the game. When you find the acronym you can be the person to make the game popular. Now you are ready to look up acronyms and abbreviations on YouTube. How do you play a video game? You have to know the name of 77a5ca646e

AcroLexic is a dictionary of acronyms and abbreviations. It contains more than 70,000 terms with more than 150,000 definitions. AcroLexic allows you to find acronym's meaning fast and effectively. An incremental search starts by sorting out the database as soon as you type-in the first characters of the acronym (when you type the first letters all records starting with that string entered are displayed in the top of the list). It is light-weight software with a small size and does not require installation or registration. AcroLexic is fully compatible with Windows 95/98/Me/2000/XP. Reviews of AcroLexic - Newest Reviews: - Most Recent: A great tool Mar 09, 2007 by Josh M. Almost 7 years ago, I ran a very similar utility that would search your entire hard drive and pull the definitions for acronyms into an excel workbook. I would highly recommend this program to any Microsoft users out there. It's awesome! AcroLexic is a classic! Jun 23, 2004 by Marc G. This is an excellent tool. It has all the advanced features that you'd expect from a program that has been around for 10 years. The developer keeps adding new features and the program has become a real must have utility for MS Word users. I wish there were more people like this guy. The price is also fair. I strongly recommend it May 08, 2004 by Al Sala I've used AcroLexic for years and find it a real tool for typing and managing acronyms. Incorporating the definitions is also a plus. I can suggest AcroLexic to anyone who uses acronyms in their daily work or career. Best Acronym program I have ever found Apr 02, 2004 by Bob T A must have tool for MS Word users. With AcroLexic you can type a keyword and search for the acronyms with that keyword. You will find a whole list of acronyms which are sorted alphabetically. You can either highlight all or selected terms and copy them into another word document. You can also search the list for a specific acronym. AcroLexic saves the terms as well as the definition in a.txt file. A very handy feature is that you can paste a list of acronyms into another word
